Elimination of Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance

The General Assembly,

Conscious of the connection between environmental causes, among others, as it regards migration and the rise of xenophobia and other forms of intolerance, and that combatting this primordial cause is crucial in achieving all aforementioned 2030 Sustainable Development Goals,

Taking into consideration the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action which was adopted by consensus at the 2001 World Conference against Racism (WCAR) in all countries,

Recalling that every human being has the same right to pursue their life choices according to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights signed by the United Nations General Assembly in 1948,

Reaffirming that immigration should be handled in legal ways, following the correct procedures as stipulated by that state,

Fully aware that every country has its own national curriculum therefore we must strive to achieve our goals for the future and increase the level of tolerance of member states,

Acknowledging the worldwide ongoing refugee crisis, for example the one in the European Union and its ramifications,

Recognizing that education is one of the primary methods of influencing both the present and the next generation and taking note of the fact that discrimination rates have risen amongst youth globally,

Acknowledging that every culture has its values and particularities, and that the equal participation of all cultures is conducive to the building of a global society,

1. Proclaims the need to take action against the migration crisis specifically as related to human trafficking,

2. Requests the implementation of policies in every member state to protect the rights of legal migrant workers and their families granting access to public services, homes and proper education.

3. Emphasizes that there is a need for more secure borders to keep out dangers from our countries,

4. Encourages nations to emphasize the value of national identity and focus on their own culture, and establish an official language,

5. Further encourages nations to contain the national flow of migrants from the orient and encourage the establishment of migration facilities in the countries nearby to promote domestic order and unity among similar cultures, emphasizing the crucial role cultural similarity plays in facilitating smooth integration process for migrants and in reducing racial disparity

6. Urges governments to mobilize and train current law enforcement officers to enforce order in refugee camps,

7. Calls upon the Member States to cooperate on an international scale to control the borders and the migration flows in order to assure domestic order,

8. Insists to seek an end to the arduous socio-economic conditions faced by the indigenous people of former colonial states proclaims that member states must implement institutional reforms in order to eliminate intolerance,

9. Invites the Member States and the UNFPA to fund local projects among citizens to raise awareness starting from the population itself up to the governmental hierarchy and recommends institutions to encourage the participation of students in international exchange programs and the celebration of various traditional festivals in institutions for students to understand and appreciate the beauty of different cultures,

10. Expresses concern on the rise of Islamophobia together with related religious intolerance and racial profiling as its consequence, the Organization of Islamic Cooperation is appointed as a key actor of this cooperation,

11. Urges all States to formulate new decrees regarding the regulation of the digital market, especially concerning the evolution of social media Terms of Service aimed at ensuring a legal basis for action against online recruitment and hate speech.

12. Affirms that schools must be made into safe havens free from any form of discrimination, and believes that teachers must be trained to work with children of all nationalities and backgrounds,

13. Encourages the reform of terms of service use of social media platforms in this technological era in order to heighten awareness of cases of discrimination and intolerance

14. Calls upon the United Nation Human Rights Council and other relevant United Nations entities, within their mandate and existing resources, to support the effort of Member States in establishing organizations to aid in the awareness and eradication of all forms of discrimination,

15. Encourages all member states to support the creation of a global campaign against discrimination, to be specifically directed towards student populations in schools and other educational institutions, as a means to curb the rising rates of discrimination within youth population, requesting member states to contribute 0.00005% of their annual nominal GDP to finance and adopt this campaign in their local education systems, as well as requesting international educational curriculums, to adopt such a system,

16. Recommends governments to support education on equality into their national curriculum so as to help the people form a deeper understanding of equality while discussing and identifying different types of inequality.
